

Scholarly Traits

Scholars come with a half of a cup of knowledge and are ready to learn more. They practice academic humility.

Scholars look at the world using many perspectives.

Scholars take pride in the quality of their work.

Scholars have both long term and short term goals.

Scholars are ready with the supplies and tools needed to learn.

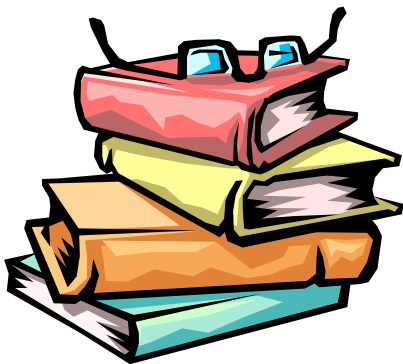

Scholars exercise their intellect and learn to persevere.

Scholars ponder ideas.

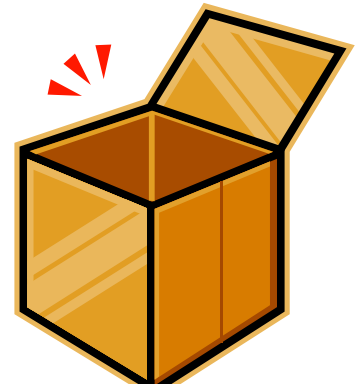

Scholars have questions and want to seek answers.

Scholars use a variety of resources and references.

Scholars save ideas.

Scholars think "outside of the box" and take intellectual risks.